1. PREAMBLE

INTRODUCTION

Quotations are invited for the provision of a study on the longer-term price of LPG.

The University's detailed requirements are defined in the Specification.

BACKGROUND

The University

Loughborough is one of the country's leading universities, with an international reputation for research that matters, excellence in teaching, strong links with industry, and unrivalled achievement in sport and its underpinning academic disciplines.

It was named a Five Star Plus institution in the International QS Stars Scheme 2020 – one of only 13 worldwide and has been named the best university in the world for sports-related subjects in the QS World University Rankings for five years running (2017-2021).

Loughborough is in the top 10 of every national league table and is the top performing institution in the East Midlands. This includes being ranked 7th in the Complete University Guide 2022 and 10th in the Guardian University Guide 2022. The University also ranked 10th in the Times and Sunday Times Good University Guide 2022 and was named University of the Year for Sport, the third time it has been awarded the prestigious title. It was ranked in the top 10 in England for research intensity in the Research Excellence Framework and, in recognition of its contribution to the sector, has been awarded seven Queen's Anniversary Prizes.

The University was named best university in the UK in the University Compare Top 100 universities 2022, as well as best accommodation in the UK and 1st for course quality. In addition to this the University was also ranked 2nd* in England (3rd in UK) for overall satisfaction in the National Student Survey 2021.

The University's main campus in the East Midlands is a 440-acre site, that offers facilities for every aspect of student life combined with plenty of open spaces, gardens and sport facilities. The site has held the Green Flag Award since 2018, making it one of the nation's best green spaces.

The University has an additional campus in London, based on the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park, which offers postgraduate and executive-level education, as well as research and enterprise opportunities.

Modern Energy Cooking Services Programme (MECS)

1.8 billion people have access to electricity but still cook with biomass. Load shedding, weak grids, affordability of electricity, accessibility of liquid petroleum gas (LPG), tradition, perceptions, and a lack of suitable cooking appliances all act as barriers to scaling up the use of electricity or gas for cooking – clean cooking.

We already know that increasing access through renewable energy generation is becoming more affordable and opening new windows of opportunity; new business models and smart monitoring are improving the reliability of LPG distribution; appliances can be made more energy efficient but still cook favourite foods so they taste right; and cooking with electricity can reach an affordable price point whilst still maintaining reliability and sustainability in a few years.

We want to capitalise on this and new knowledge emerging from the MECS programme to break out of business-as-usual approaches and rapidly accelerate the transition from biomass to clean cooking on a global scale.

MECS is funded by UK Aid through the Foreign Commonwealth and Development Office. It is a partnership between researchers, innovators, policy makers, and ESMAP drawing on their expertise and relevant work from around the world to co-construct new knowledge with practitioners and the private sector. It is led by Loughborough University, UK.

The Requirement

MECS is seeking a consultant/s to conduct a study on the longer-term pricing of LPG.

LPG is frequently presented as the most cost effective short to medium-term solution to the global clean cooking challenge and a major transition fuel in the eventual pursuit of net zero.

Such assertions, however, are looking increasingly questionable given the volatile nature of international markets.

We are looking to conduct a detailed analysis of the future trajectory for the cost of LPG over the short, medium, and long-term.

2. SPECIFICATION

Background to the work

Let us start by acknowledging that no one can know the future, and we accept this. At this moment in time the price of oil, and by implication of LPG, is thought to be particularly turbulent, driven largely by the war in Ukraine. It is difficult to know if this is a moment in time which will settle back to a lower price, or whether this is a moment when the price will continue to rise (or level out higher).

For the last 20 years the price of crude oil has been turbulent. After a rise around 2000, the economic crisis of 2008 sent the price to approximately the same as today, and then it came down, only to rise again in the last 6 months (Figure 1).

Before the war in Ukraine, the price was predicted to rise steadily (by the US EIA) as shown in figure 2b. Some tentative modelling using the new starting 'post Ukraine' price jump, suggests that the whole line is shifted up, resulting in about $250 per barrel by 2050.

The original steady rise prediction does not seem to include removal of inefficient subsidies as highlighted by COP26. Inefficient subsidies are said to be half a trillion USD worldwide directly, and according to the IMF perhaps 5 trillion USD indirectly. We assume this will affect the longer-term price of crude (and by implication LPG). Again, crude modelling including the removal of subsidies suggests that the $250 could become $400 by 2050.

On the other hand and in contrast to the above, if the aspirations of COP26 (and associated climate change targets of Net Zero) are met, the removal of subsidies may only be a part of the picture. In the recent IEA net zero report, they anticipate a price rise over the coming ten years, but thereafter a reduced demand for oil (resulting from increased use of renewable energy generation). Demand for oil decreases, which in turn creates an over- supply such that the price drops.

There is of course some disconnect between the crude oil price and the price of LPG in different contexts. This should be accounted for where possible and commented on generally.

Scope of Work

The successful tenderer should ensure that their analysis incorporates an exploration of all the following points;

- (i) the factors that are likely to affect the pricing of LPG
- (ii) the Geography of existing LPG production and distribution across Africa and Asia and future growth potential,
- (iii) the potential for LPG growth in different markets (including the additional production and distribution infrastructural costs associated with increasing market share),
- (iv) the current market impacts of the War in Ukraine,
- (v) the longer-term geopolitical and geo-economic implications of future changes in international relations with Russia,
- (vi) the insecurity that some countries feel when they import their LPG and whether the Ukraine/Europe experience has affected their longer-term planning (e.g. Nepal reducing dependence on India)
- (vii) the growing pressure to reduce and ultimately eradicate fossil fuel subsidies (including on LPG),
- (viii) the future role of carbon pricing on energy markets,
- (ix) the potential growth trajectory for Bio-LPG¹ and its implications

¹ MECS has supported the development of Bio-LPG

We expect the output of the analysis to be presented as three main scenarios – significant price rise, medium price rise and price level or drop. Against each one, the conditions by which they might occur and the assumptions you have made, citing where possible other industry sources should be included.

The analysis should include signs/indicators for the next 3 years which might indicate which of the scenarios are occurring.

This should include a political economic analysis of action on global climate change. For example;

- For the IEA scenario of a price drop by 2050 to have occurred, governments and private sector will need to adhere to and invest in the removal of inefficient subsidies. At the moment (mid 2022), there seems to be very little political will for this, and the oil industry lobby seems to be working against it. What might we hope to see to know whether these subsidies will be removed in the near to medium term?
- There are discussions about the carbon bank and whether climate change will be addressed only when we reach a cliff edge – what indicators are or could be available for assessing progress to net zero?
- Should we rely on UN compacts and Nationally Determined Commitments or are they mere political speak?
- Could we look at the private sector commitments? If Amazon really reaches net zero by 2035 how might that affect things?

We acknowledge that this is informed future guesswork, but it is important to ground the ideas in as much data and trend data as possible. We note that past performance does not necessarily indicate future performance, and so documenting and declaring the assumptions made behind any statement is important.

Deliverables

At 8 weeks - a presentation should be made on findings to date and draft scenarios.

At 16 weeks - a final report inclusive of;

- the 3 scenarios,
- the core assumptions behind each scenario,
- the data sources indicating the likelihood of each scenario
- the top indicators to watch for in the coming 3 years that might indicate which scenario is coming about.

Budget and Timescales

The total budget is a maximum of £20,000 (ex VAT, where applicable).

The research is expected to commence no later than 1st October 2022. All deliverables must be completed and delivered no later than 31st January 2023. These dates are non-negotiable.

The consultant should demonstrate in their response to these ToRs how the work can be completed within the time available.

Payment is contingent on successful completion of all deliverables.

Contract Management

All meetings and appointments to discuss the overall progress of the project against the contract will be agreed and arranged in advance and at mutually convenient times. Any significant changes to the approved research plan and timelines have to be discussed and approved in advance.

Ethical considerations

All research must be in line with the Code of Practice for research, Promoting good practice and preventing misconduct (UK Research Integrity Office, 2009).

The UK Research Integrity Office (UKRIO) is an independent charity, offering support to the public, researchers and organisations to further good practice in academic, scientific and medical research. Its confidential advice service is available to free of charge to individuals (members of the public, research participants, patients, researchers and students) and subscribing organisations. Their advice service can be accessed here.

At a minimum, participants must not be subjected to physical, social, legal or psychological harm. Due consideration and ethical steps must be taken into safeguarding all participants, especially the vulnerable. A detailed Participation Information Sheet explaining the full scope of the study, what confidentiality entails, and that no participants will be forced into participating, must be provided at recruitment. Participants are to be made aware that participation is fully voluntary and there are no repercussions if they choose to no longer participate in the study at any point in time. Participants should, ideally, sign a consent form which includes consent for the use of photographs and videos.

Confidentiality must be maintained at all times. With regards to confidentiality and privacy of participation, participants must be informed that their anonymity will be maintained in any outputs and that all identifiable markers will be removed from any data sets that are published. Additionally, due consideration must be made to ensure that participants are safeguarded during the research process in line with the local government issued guidelines around COVID-19.

The consultant will be responsible for securing any research or ethical permissions needed from local authorities in each of the field work locations. There may be additional ethical, or research clearance needed for this kind of user centric design research in the chosen country.

4. DUE DILIGENCE PROCESS

The first-place tenderer will be required to submit a Due Diligence Questionnaire that will check the organisation's financial stability along with its processes and policies to ensure they are in-line with our funders' requirements.

Once notified the questionnaire must be completed within 10 business days. This process will be fully transparent, and the achieved will be returned along with a copy of the assessment. If the due diligence process is completed satisfactorily, the contract will be awarded.

The Due Diligence Questionnaire is included here. This is for information only, do not complete it unless requested to.

Due Diligence & Safeguarding Questionnaire

Please note the following points before completing the questionnaire;

- Please complete this questionnaire honestly. Answering 'no' to a question does not automatically disqualify your organization from working with the programme. In each section you are invited to explain the answer you give. This explanation is important and will be given careful consideration during the assessment process.
- Providing false information on this questionnaire can result in the termination of any contract issued.
- There are 3 main sections to complete; background information, due diligence and Safeguarding. All sections and sub-sections must be completed. If a question is not applicable to your organisation mark it N/A.
- All details provided in the questionnaire will be kept securely and managed in line with Loughborough University's Data Protection Policy. Details of the policy can be found at <https://www.lboro.ac.uk/admin/ar/policy/dpact/ludpp/>
- Please complete the checklist and sign the declaration at the end of the form. Forms returned without a signature will not be processed.

Section C: Safeguarding

Principles of Safeguarding

The safeguarding principles that underpin our due diligence process are as follows;

- Do no harm
- Organisations have a safeguarding duty of care to any people we work with, staff and volunteers, including where downstream partners are part of delivery. This includes people who are not directly involved in the programme but who may be vulnerable to abuse as a result of the activities of the programme.
